INTRODUCTION

This gazetteer supplement contains 780 entries for populated places and other features on a worldwide basis exclusive of the United States and its dependencies. This selected listing is designed to bring together all geographic entities for which the Board on Geographic Names has approved a conventional form of the name. The names in this gazetteer supersede those in all previous Board lists for the entities concerned.

For purposes of this gazetteer, and henceforward, all of its other publications and deliberations, the Board has agreed upon the following definition of the term "conventional name":

"A BGN conventional name is a name approved by BGN for use in addition to, or in lieu of, a BGN-approved local official name or names."

The Board recognizes the following categories of entities as appropriate for the approval of conventional forms:

1. Entities consisting of, or located in, a single national jurisdiction, for which one or more local official forms are approved. Examples:

Belgium, Kingdom of (conv); Royaume de Belgique (French); Koninkrijk België (Flemish)
Galilee (conv); HaGalil (Hebrew)

2. International features for which one or more local forms are approved for optional use. Examples:

Rhine River (conv); Rhein (German); Rhin (French); Rijn (Dutch)
Scutari, Lake (conv); Skadarsko Jezero (Yugoslavia); Liqen i Shkodrës (Albania)

3. Entities whose unwieldy romanized local official forms suggest the need for translation in whole or in part. Examples:

Kwangsi Chuang Autonomous Region (conv); Kuang-hsi-chuang-tsu Tzu-chih-ch'ü (Chinese)
Ukrainian Soviet Socialist Republic (conv); Ukrainskaya Sovetskaya Sotsialisticheskaya Respublika (Russian)
Central District (conv); Meḥoz HaMerkaz (Hebrew)

The term "conventional name" is not applied to the following categories of geographic entities:

1. Those whose names in an English context are identical with the local official spellings, or the BGN romanization thereof. Examples:

Argentina, France, Minsk, Paris, Yokohama

2. Those located in an area where no national jurisdiction is recognized by the U.S. Government. Examples:

Dvořák Ice Rise (Antarctica), Vitória Seamount (undersea feature)

3. Those entities for which no well-known conventional name exists. Examples:

Santa Cruz del Quiché (Guatemala)
Nisís Áyios Andónios (Greece)
Btallûn (Lebanon)

4. International entities for which no local form is approved for optional use. Examples:

Alps, Sahara, Hispaniola, Atlantic Ocean, Mediterranean Sea, Great Rift Valley

5. Those features located in a single non-Roman alphabet jurisdiction for which the Board does not approve a local official form for optional use. Examples:

Japan, Kingdom of _Thailand_

Conventional forms have not been approved for all entities which fall into the accepted categories. Except for countries, capitals, and a few major cities, the criterion for retention or dropping of a conventional name was whether the local name identifies the entity without confusion.

INTERPRETATION OF ENTRIES

Name.—The approved conventional name (boldface type) and local official name(s) appear in the first column. Where part of a name is underlined, the use of the part not underlined is optional. Conventional names are identified by the abbreviation (conv), all others are explained by a parenthetical indication of the language or political application of the name.

Where there is a discrepancy between the parenthetical indication of the language or political application in the NAME column and in the MAJOR AREA column, no name was available for the feature in the other country or countries.

Designation.—The coded designations are usually those used in the gazetteers in which the entities previously appeared. Some codes have been changed over the years, such as PPL and STM for "populated place" and "stream," respectively, replacing the codes POPL and STRM which were used in earlier gazetteers. The following designation list contains an explanation of all codes used herein.

Major Area. The major area is usually the political entity or entities in which the feature is located, and in many cases this will be the same as the title of the gazetteer(s) in which the name(s) previously appeared. Features located in areas of undetermined sovereignty or widely remote from the country of sovereignty have been given an arbitrary regional label. The major area column in this gazetteer is designed to orient the user. For additional information on the features concerned the user is referred to the basic gazetteers and their supplements published by the Board on Geographic Names.

Geographic names or their spellings do not necessarily reflect recognition of the political status of an area by the United States Government.
